Lleida,
24th-26th November 2010

L'Institut de Recerca Identitats i Societat (IRIS)

It gathers 11 University of Lleida research groups that aim at tracing the historical, sociological and linguistic traits that define people and societies' identities and looking at how they enhance the exchanges and relations which define life.

From this perspective, IRIS has arranged an international meeting so that the most outstanding scholars in different fields can investigate on-the-move identity throughout history and across language, geography or any other scope of knowledge. As a result, its main goal must be contribution to solve one of the liveliest problems in the world today.
