Research Activities

GREC

GREC is a research management application developed by the University of Barcelona that is currently used by various institutions and research organisations.

GREC has a number of databases (curricula vitae, projects, publications, etc.), support environments (tables, information, registries, etc.) and exploitation programmes (reports, lists, statistics, etc.).